Warsaw, 2 April 2019, 11:00 a.m. – KBC, one of the largest bank-insurers in Europe, implements an upgrade of the core banking systems in Slovakia and Hungary. This is a key element of the 5-year digital strategy adopted by the bank's leadership. On the operational side, the team of experts from Deloitte's Temenos Center of Excellence together with local teams will be responsible for the end-to-end system integration. An agreement, concluded by KBC and Deloitte, was signed in the last days of March.

Deloitte's team will lead this journey, having proven their professionalism whilst executing the analysis stage for this project for the past 6 months - says Willem Hueting, Senior General Manager International Markets, KBC.*

The first phase of KBC's Digital Transformation includes the core banking system replacement and will last two years. - One of the initiative's key goals is full digitization of the CSOB, which will provide our clients with access to modern, innovative banking services enabled by digital technologies - says Daniel Kollar, CEO at CSOB.

The complex project aims to modernize the core of the bank's business. - Big challenges lead to bigger improvements. Implementation of a modern, integrated, open-core banking platform like T24 will allow K&H to offer further innovative products and smooth, easy and convenient services to its customers with quickly changing needs on the Hungarian market. To implement Temenos T24 we rely on Deloitte and its Center of Excellence, whose team has strong core banking capabilities - points out David Moucheron, CEO at K&H

The banks recognize the need to change their current operating ecosystem in order to cope with demands of the market and customer base regarding increased commercial agility and a good go-to-market strategy.
